Note: Currently this game does not allow save-game-files. You have to delete the existing save-game-file in order to start a new game. In the following description I will always assume that this is the case, unless otherwise specified. You are an explorer in Antarctica on a middle of your life, who has been chosen by the state to be sent on a polar mission. Your mission is to search, find and find out where the lost polar scientist disappeared in the wilderness. You have to make use of the whole station in order to accomplish your task. All stores are your enemies, as well as any polar bear, the general conditions of the region are very dangerous (they may attack you and steal your food, and if you need fuel for the engines, then they will try to intercept you). The game shows you the top screen with two objects that you are facing: - The map of Antarctica - The compass. When you have done the instruments checks, a radar shows you everything around you. Your helicopter will show up. If no other polar companions or animals are available, you can now land. If they are around, they will be flagged in your radar. When you are ready, you can start to land. Find a good place to base your helicopter. You want it to be as safe as possible and to have enough fuel. In order to fuel your helicopter, you need to select a pump, which is displayed at the bottom of the screen. You can select it directly and immediately, or select another object - a fuel can or an ammunition can. Note: Some of the games you play in this section of the website do not feature images and sounds. In order to make this website easy for you to use, the games can be played without images and sounds. You can turn these things on/off in the menu on the bottom of this website (the gear that is displayed in the middle of the screen). If you turn them off, then you will not hear nor see any of the sounds and images that this section of the website displays. After you are done filling your helicopter, you can take off. Here you can go to the map, and select where to go. You can either select direct, or select a direction by compass. Then you land. The left side of the screen shows the names of the objects that you can select, as well as the status of your helicopter (health and fuel). Your compass is also highlighted. The right side of the screen

- Scene 3 Mitsunari, Ichi and Gojyo are sharing a meal with Momose in a restaurant. Gojyo: " I don't understand. What happened to the Hakata boy? " Ichi: "... He died. On the way here. " Gojyo: "... What? Is that true? Really, a death?" Momose: " Of course. After all, when two of the strongest exorcists of all exist, we should have found it hard to come back. " Gojyo: " The Hakata boy was your grandfather. He is now buried in Hakata." Momose: "...!" Gojyo: " Please don't worry. I'll take care of Grandpa's spirit... " Momose: "... Fine. I'll just eat my bento. " Mitsunari: " Shukumei, any updates? " Shukumei: " Yes, I need to report. A beast is terrorizing the city. " Mitsunari: " The Demon Slayer is fighting a full-scale invasion. Did you contact anyone?" Shukumei: " Yes. And I made a promise with the Hakata Tree...." Ichinose: " What promise? " Shukumei: " You are the only one that can understand. It's a secret. " Ichinose: "..... Make this secret clear..." Shukumei: " Don't tell me... you need to be hidden. " Ichinose: "..... You are right. But on the off-chance that a Demon Slayer really does exist in Japan, I shall be counted among them.... If that day comes, I will open the door. " Shukumei: " Don't mention such a thing... " Ichinose: "... I am all right. I'll decide that day whether I'll be a Demon Slayer. " Shukumei: "..... That's a promise? " Ichinose: " Let's talk about the story of the two friends later, okay? " Shukumei: " Yeah. I'll be off. " Ichinose: " Thanks. " " Gomejon Ban Andon" Shuk

Little is known about the effects of chronically administered ethanol (EtOH) on cholinergic terminals within the peripheral nervous system. Although there is no appreciable anatomic evidence of damage, a loss of cholinergic terminals in the rat trigeminal ganglion following 4 months of EtOH feeding has been observed. The purpose of this study was to determine if withdrawal from EtOH feeding results in further loss of neuronal cholinergic terminals within the rat trigeminal ganglion. We examined how ethanol withdrawal affects cholinergic innervation of rat trigeminal ganglion using immunocytochemical stains for choline acetyltransferase (ChAT) and immunohistochemical stains for the synaptophysin (S-100 protein), vesicular acetylcholine transporter (VAcHT). Male Long-Evans rats (250-350 g, Charles River Laboratories) were fed an EtOH solution (50%) for 4 months and then withdrawn for 2 months. Control rats received a liquid diet isocalorically substituted with carbohydrate. The difference between bilateral counts was taken as a measure of the loss of ChAT-positive nerve fibers, and a loss was noted in the EtOH-fed, withdrawn group. Larger nerve fiber terminals were seen in the brain stem for both groups, and the viability of the fiber fibers was confirmed by
