- # Chapter 3: Creating an image in Photoshop In this chapter you will

- * Create an image in Photoshop
- * Edit an image in Photoshop
- * Make an image your background
- * Resize an image
- * Manage layers
- * Place vector graphics in a layer

Whether you're dealing with an image that you've created from scratch or an existing image that you want to manipulate, the goal is pretty much the same: You want to be able to control the look of your image by applying and editing layers in Photoshop. In this chapter, we'll cover the basic steps to creating your own images, fixing any issues that you encounter, and saving your project for sharing. You will not just create new files in this chapter, as you did in Chapter 1, but you will also make adjustments to an existing image. ## Creating a New Document in Photoshop When you first open Photoshop, the program automatically creates a new document for you. You don't have to create a new image every time you open the program. Adobe recommends that you name your document after your image. If you want, you can delete the default name and choose a new one, but it's not required. This book assumes that you're using the default settings for your Photoshop document. If you're using a different setting, you may have to adjust several options when you create a document. You can resize the document to create a canvas that is the size you want. In the following steps we're going to create a 12-inch-wide document. 1. Open Photoshop and make sure that Create a new document is not set to On (Figure 3-1). In the figure, the default setting is Off. You can also turn it On by clicking the button below the Image Size menu. Figure 3-1. To create a new document instead of opening an existing one, make sure that Create a new document is On or choose File > New*. 2. *Create a new document, and enter the following name in the New Document dialog

This article shows you how to open and edit images in Photoshop Elements 2018 without Adobe Photoshop. We will talk about how to edit images in the Elements Panel and how to load images using File>Open. Open and Edit Images in the Elements Panel As Elements is a photo editor so you can open and edit images in the Elements Panel which is the default file browser. You can also open and edit images using File>Open. You can open the Elements Panel from your home screen when you are on the Home tab. You can open the files using any of these methods to open the images. 1. Using the Quick Tabs You can use your Home screen as a tray, which means it does not show in your taskbar. To access the Home screen, click the three dots in the bottom left corner of your screen. You should see a tab called Home, which you can use to access your new shortcut. 2. Right Click on an empty space After you have set your home screen shortcut, you will be able to access your desktop by right-clicking in an empty space on the desktop. 3. Use File Explorer You can also use the Explorer, which appears when you click on the address bar at the top of your screen. You can access the folder explorer by clicking on the View menu and then selecting folder options. 4. Use Google Now Google Now is Google's new search engine that brings the information you need into a visually engaging way. You can enable Google Now by clicking the Google Now button in the Settings app. You can access

Google Now by clicking the home screen icon and you will find a Google Search button, which will launch a search of the web. This is a popular alternative to accessing the file explorer. You can also download a Google Now widget for your home screen and adjust the height and width to give yourself access to information.

5. Click the Recently Added tab
To access the most recently added items, click on the Recently added tab in the bottom of the screen. In Elements, you can also access your folder list using the Recently added tab.

6. Access the Elements Panels using Grid View To access the Elements Panel, click on the left-pointing arrow in the bottom left corner of the screen. This will give you access to the collection of photos called Places, which is found on the left-hand a681f4349e

Megatrends The most influential Megatrends set to shape the world through 2030, identified by Euromonitor International, help businesses better anticipate market developments and lead change for their industries. Vietnam Mobile Advertising Market: New Players Appear New companies join the mobile advertising market in Vietnam for the first time in 2015, and the 2015 data collection shows no signs of slowing. App developers are encouraged to take advantage of the new mobile advertising market for increased revenue generation. New players join the mobile advertising market in Vietnam

Despite the severe economic climate in 2013, a relatively stable year for mobile advertising in Vietnam, a total of 27 new mobile advertising companies registered in Vietnam in 2015. These new players quickly made themselves known to the market with some of them having made online debut within the past year. Among them are Apple, Facebook, Google and Yahoo. Some of the new players are also notable, with Vobile being a new company that appears to be making waves as a Google and Facebook agent, and Pubgoco and Jammy as newer players on the market. Increased mobile advertising effort Some of the new players are using 2015 to further expand their role in the mobile advertising market. It seems like new players are doing their best to make a name for themselves and attract consumers. Out of those 27 new players, 13 registered for the first time in 2015. VMCG (Vietnam Mobile Communication Group) registered in 2015 for the first time. VMCG has offered revenue generation services since its inception. It specialises in the VoIP market, among other things, providing Vietnam's leading telecoms with services. Apple has been participating in the mobile advertising market in Vietnam since 2010. Since then, it has expanded its advertising offering to include a wide range of services, from push notifications and in-app purchases to analytics. Facebook has been a major player in the mobile advertising market since its inception in Vietnam in 2013. However, despite its popularity, it has failed to make the leap to the top tier players in the market in terms of market share. The Google parent company is also a major player in the mobile advertising market in Vietnam. It has been offering its service in Vietnam since 2011 and has marketed its services as a strong brand in the market. Yahoo debuted in Vietnam at the beginning of 2015, with its aim being to become one of the largest players in Vietnam. It has aggressively developed its presence in the

What's New In?

*Dive board development. I spent much of my free time in college messing around on the dive board (including getting annoyed because the board was TOO BIG in a 10'x20' shaded lanai). *IFP average statistics (ex. three board flips in a row on 8-10 average to get a top score). *Having a Hobie board is a HUGE time saver with the amount of time you will spend in the water as a teenager. *The boat handling will be great because of the higher side leverage and flatter hull. *The boat handling will be great because of the higher side leverage and flatter hull. +1 This is right on. I can also ride one up the ladder and launch with my friends to spot surf on the surface. I like it because it is infinitely easier to paddlers knees down than out over sail. Having two people per side also allows a launch friend to help me launch. I've found that the puddle types loose much of their performance when you get this large of a board in or up in the surf. I've also noticed that the puddle types perform best without a centerboard even in the surf which is a huge advantage to Hobie. It's as if these guys have adapted the board to surf and made the board perform the way it was meant to. I saw this today at the beach. That's right, it's a Hobie board. The best choice for the surfer in the winter is to purchase a board for the summer that is meant to handle the surf. Just remember that if it's just for a few weeks you'll need to buy another board back in January when the surfer goes back to the hardest surf for the season. I've been surfing here in So. Fl for the last 18 years. I started surfing on a surfboard when I was about 12-13 or maybe a little younger. I always had a Hobie, but I couldn't afford it. So I tried a Crossbow and took about a year off from surfing till I made the trade. Same setup, much different feel. The spades are better and the Hobie board is much heavier. The thing about the Hobie surfboard is that it feels like the
